

SATURDAY MORNING, OCT. 14, 1882.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

Pokemont, Oct. 13.—Of valley wheat today, 60¢ per bushel; New Hampshire eastern wheat, 60¢ per bushel; corn, 40¢ per barrel.

Wheat—The market was good, without great or full prices. A fair amount of business is doing, here still more particularly in the country, and though there is a general feeling that the market will be strong at $1.25 per bushel for chin-wales.

There seems to be more of spirit on our part of public to meet supply, rather than demand, which is still a difference of fully 50¢ per bushel between us & it's stated, so far as we can learn, that our crop is about 1,000,000 bushels, and that the market is still strong.

The market is still strong, and a slight advance is to be expected.

There is no mention made.
